RED CROSS DRIVE POSTER—This is the official poster for the Red Cross' 1956 fund campaign which opened today, with the local goal set at $20,018. The poster emphasizes the disaster relief phase of the Red Cross work because last year was the worst disaster year in U.S. history. Midwest tornadoes, Atlantic seaboard hurricanes, floods in the east and west combined during 1955 to drain Red Cross funds. Dr. B. L. Stanga is chairman of the drive here.

Minister Serves As Full-Time Chaplain For Mentally Retarded

PARSONS, Kan. (AP)—A tall, gentle-voiced clergyman from North Dakota is spending his first Lent in an unusual new offshoot of the ministry—as a psychiatric chaplain.

The Rev. Mr. Sigurd Peterson, a native of Kenmare, N.D., in the Middle West for some 20 years, the most recent in Racine, Wis., but he said today he found his present job "the most satisfying of my life."

He serves as full-time chaplain at the Parsons State Training School for Mentally Retarded Children. He is a Lutheran.

In preparation for the task, he took a rigorous nine-month course in psychiatry at a Topeka, Kan., hospital. He is convinced religion has much common ground with that branch of medicine.

At the Parsons hospital, which does some pioneer work in the field of mental retardation, the chaplaincy is on an equal basis with other clinical services.

Nearly 500 mentally handicapped children and young people between 6 and 21 are at Parsons.

The minister's religious message is painstakingly adapted to the children's limited understanding, as well as to their individual needs.

Consequently, it is short on theology and abstract notions, long on emotion and simple faith.

"I stress God's love," he said. "The youngsters have very great emotional needs, and I find them profoundly responsive to this aspect of religion."

"One of the things religion has to say to these children is that they are significant in spite of their handicap—that they count equally in God's sight."

The chaplain conducts two services each Sunday morning, one for teen-agers and one for younger children. A priest says Mass for the Catholic youngsters.

Wednesday night there is a service in the form of hymn singing and Bible stories illustrated with slides.

The hospital's psychiatrists are pleased with the way the chaplain's religious work—which also includes a huge schedule of personal counseling— dovetails with their own therapy. This aims at resolving a child's emotional conflicts, developing his mentality as far as possible, and creating a personality adjusted to its handicap.

His work with the mentally handicapped, the minister said, "has tremendously broadened my understanding of people? If I should undertake another pastorate, I think I'd be twice as good a pastor as before."

Top Republicans Discuss Type Of Campaign By Ike

Will Urge President To Make Appearances In Some Key Districts

By The Associated Press
Top Republicans have begun talking about the kind of re-election campaign President Eisenhower should wage. And the discussion so far indicates he'll be urged to make personal appearances in some key areas.

The question was discussed Sunday in interviews by three Republicans—National Chairman Leonard Hall and Senators Knowland of California and Goldwater of Arizona.

All three indicated they foresaw Eisenhower forays into at least a few major cities. And Knowland said he personally would ask the President to go into some areas where Republican candidates face strong opposition.

Spoke On Ike's Health
Among the Democrats, Sen. Estes Kefauver had more to say Sunday about his position on Eisenhower's health as a campaign issue—a position that conflicts with the one taken by Adlai Stevenson.

Kefauver said Sunday he doesn't plan to make an issue of the President's health. The Tennessee Democrat added that he has "never questioned anyone's physical condition or his looks."

Stevenson, one of Kefauver's rivals for the Democratic presidential nomination, has said he views Eisenhower's health as a "compelling issue."

Talking to newsmen at Manchester, N.H., Kefauver said he doesn't think Stevenson is wrong in taking this position — "it's just that I'm running my own campaign."

Another Democrat, Sen. Fulbright of Arkansas, said today he fears discussion of Eisenhower's health will overshadow what he called "the really important issue"—foreign policy.

"While we talk about the President's health and whether there is lasting prosperity, we may be losing Asia to the Russians," he told a newsmen.

Knowland, the Senate GOP leader, said he personally would urge Eisenhower to "get out beyond merely television broadcasts from the White House." He said Eisenhower should make a few campaign appearances in areas where Republican candidates might be in trouble.

Eisenhower has rejected any suggestion of a "barnstorming"

6 Are Fined Here For Drunken Driving

Six drivers were each fined $100 and costs and sentenced to three days in jail by Mayor Dean B. Cranmer, following weekend arrests by police and the state highway patrol for driving while intoxicated.

Fined and jailed were: Hilbert L. Quisenberry, 28, of Grant Town, W. Va., arrested at 1 p.m. Saturday on S. Lincoln Ave.; Dale R. Sloan, 45, of Warren, arrested on N. Lundy Ave. at 1 a.m. Sunday; Milton Goddard, 36, of RD 5, Salem, arrested at 1:15 a.m. Sunday on E. State St.

Charles W. Snyder, 36, of Hanover, arrested at 2:55 a.m. Sunday on E. State St.; Gene C. Davis, 35, of 1050 South Ave., arrested on E. State St. at 1:45 a.m. today; Ray Albert Sutherland, 30, of East Palestine, cited by state highway patrolmen, was also fined $20 and costs for speeding, in addition to the $100 fine for drunk driving.

Vivino will retain the post pending results of the exam, Harris said.

Sen. Goldwater Got Campaign Gift From Keck

Says Democrats Also Received Donations From Oil Firm Family

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz.) says he accepted a campaign contribution from a member of the family that controls Superior Oil Co. of California.

Goldwater added, in an interview Sunday, that he doesn't think this should affect his membership on a special Senate committee planning a broad investigation of lobbying and campaign contributions.

He said he could name "four or five Democrats who received contributions" from the same source. He did not elaborate.

An aide in Goldwater's office quoted the senator today as saying his contribution came from "Bill" Keck.

There are two William Kecks in the family. William Myron Sr. is Superior's board chairman. One of his sons, William Myron Jr. is an independent oil operator.

Donation Listed
Records in the office of the Arizona secretary of state list a contribution of $250 from Goldwater's campaign fund from a Matthew Keck of Chicago. The Goldwater aide could not place that name.

The special investigating committee and another, smaller Senate group were set up after Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) disclosed he rejected a $2,500 campaign fund offer during the recent Senate debate on the controversial natural gas bill.

The money offered Case was traced by the smaller special committee to personal funds of Howard B. Keck, president of Superior Oil. John M. Neff, an oil company lawyer-lobbyist who made the offer, testified there were "no strings attached."

This committee, which is limiting its inquiry to the Case matter, was ready to try again today to pin down whether or not Neff offered to contribute Keck funds to the re-election campaign of Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa). The committee last week heard conflicting testimony on this point.

Goldwater was among those voting for the bill to exempt natural gas producers from direct federal

Exam For Sanitarian Post Set Thursday

A civil service exam for the position of Salem Health Department sanitarian will be held at City Hall Thursday at 7:30 p.m., Roy W. Harris, clerk of the Salem Civil Service Commission, said today.

The position, which pays $423.50 per month, is presently occupied by Angelo Vivino, 28, formerly of Brewster, who began his duties here last September after the health department created the job. However, Harris said, Vivino did not take a civil service examination as required.

Vivino will retain the post pending results of the exam, Harris said.

Salem Pupils Attend Industrial Exposition

Today 523 freshmen pupils and their teachers from high schools in Salem, Lowellville, Bessemer, Brookfield, and United Local and North Beaver school districts attended the eighth annual Industrial Exposition of the Mahoning and Shenango valleys at Stambaugh Auditorium in Youngstown to open the second week of the extended 1956 show.

This year the exposition will be open for a full three weeks, as one week was added at school officials' request because they sought more time for their pupils to tour the show of industrial and commercial processes and products of these valleys.

The display of representative exhibits, many in motion, of 74 diverse companies continues through Friday, March 16.

High school freshmen attend each school morning and will tour the exhibits and see at first hand the splendid opportunities this area affords for their future after graduation.

On Sunday, March 11, and each evening of the final week, the show will be open to the general public free of charge.

$75,000 In Damages Caused As Schwartz Store Wall Collapses

An estimated $75,000 damage was caused to Schwartz's Store at 146 S. Broadway when a wooden beam, holding up the third floor, collapsed sometime last night dropping a portion of the floor and inside wall into the second story. No one was in the building when the collapse occurred.

Horace K. Schwartz, manager of the store, said the damage was not covered by insurance.

Fire Chief Clarence Wright ordered the store closed immediately after the collapse was discovered this morning by an employee, Mrs. Kermit Wilson. Wright also ordered the alley running along the south side of the building barricaded. He stated that the south wall of the building was weakened by the collapse, and is itself in danger of collapsing.

Archie Bricker, contractor, said diagonal braces from the building south of the Schwartz store will be put up today to prevent the wall from falling.

The goal is $20,018, of which $13,475 will be retained by the Salem chapter. The balance goes to the American Red Cross for national disaster work.

Dr. Bruno L. Stanga is chairman of the local drive, and Norman Eckfeld is vice chairman.

Thirteen teams are soliciting funds in the campaign.

Romanian Reds Slay Hundreds

New Reign Of Terror Reported In Nation

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Reliable informants reported today that Romania's Communist government has launched a new wave of terror, executing hundreds of opponents and dumping bodies on the street.

The informants said they had checked and doublechecked the reports because of their "unbelievable nature." They claimed several hundred persons apparently had been executed summarily in recent months.

The sources said the first reports of the executions and public display of bodies on the streets came from refugees reaching the West as early as last autumn.

The refugee reports were later confirmed, it was said, and since then new and fresher reports of the terror wave have been reaching Western sources.

By exhibiting the bodies on the street, Romania's Red regime apparently wished to terrorize the population and warn that opposition would not be tolerated.

Nothing about the reported executions has appeared in the Communist press.

The sources here said one refugee from Romania reported seeing three or four corpses lying in front of a textile store on a main Bucharest boulevard last December.

The refugee said "The Communist police told passersby that the victims had been caught trying to rob the store." Other reports indicated bodies seen on Romanian streets may have been brought from the cellars of the secret police prisons.

Police Investigate 3 Auto Mishaps Here

No one was injured in three two-car mishaps investigated by police Sunday.

Minor damage was sustained by autos driven by John Stipic Sr. of RD 1, Salem, and Deuse C. Allcorn of East Palestine in a collision at the intersection of Newgard Ave. and Wilson St. at 2:40 p.m.

Cars driven by Ray Kenneweg of 619 E. State St. and Howard W. Black of New Waterford collided at the intersection of E. State St. and Rose Ave. at 3 p.m., causing minor damage to both vehicles.

At 5:17 p.m., Effie Cain Brown of Warren drove her car into a utility pole on S. Ellsworth Ave. to avoid hitting another car. The light globe on the pole was broken and the car received minor damage, police said.

District Couple Hurt In W. Virginia Crash

A North Georgetown couple were reported in fair condition today at Weirton, W. Va., General Hospital following a head-on auto collision Saturday at 12:15 p.m. on Rt. 2, a mile south of Weirton.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Prendergast, both suffered lacerations of the forehead and possible internal injuries following a collision between their car and one driven by John Ubrin of Mingo Junction who was listed as in good condition at the hospital.

State police said no charges were filed pending investigation.

Eisenhower Writes Bulganin, Urges Him To Join In Starting Program Of World Disarmament

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has sent to Moscow a new note urging Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin to join him in making a start on a world disarmament program.

The letter constitutes the latest round in a propaganda duel which the two men have been carrying on over disarmament and world peace for many months.

Eisenhower's note was due to be delivered to the Soviet Foreign Office today by U.S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen. Washington officials said administration plans call for it to be made public Tuesday.

It was learned the note first was dispatched to Moscow late last week, but poor radio reception forced a lengthy repeat transmission and delayed plans for a public announcement during the weekend.

The Eisenhower message is both a negative reply to Bulganin's repeated proposal for a Soviet-American friendship treaty and a positive reassertion of Eisenhower's own "open skies" disarmament plan.

The Eisenhower-Bulganin correspondence started after the summit conference last July. It was at that time that Eisenhower proposed that the United States and Russia exchange aerial reconnaissance and military blueprints as a first step toward disarmament.

Bulganin severely criticized the President's plan in a letter last September. Then at the Geneva foreign ministers' meeting in November, Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov said bluntly that Russia would not accept the Eisenhower plan.

Subsequently Bulganin made his proposal for a friendship treaty and Eisenhower turned it down.

On Feb. 1 Bulganin asked Eisenhower to reconsider and tried to make the whole deal more attractive by saying similar pacts could be concluded by Russia with Britain and France.

Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles felt the friendship treaty idea was a gesture empty of substance and intended only as a part of Russia's peace propaganda drive. They replied to the first message that "deeds, not words" were needed to bring any real improvement in world conditions.

But they felt that the second message should be answered with something of a more positive nature. Hence after considering several formulas, they settled on the new disarmament appeal as the best way to make a positive statement of American desires and avoid another bald rejection of Russia's proposition.

3 Policemen Die In Fight Along Sea of Galilee

Diplomats Fear Clash May Set Off Chain Reaction; Tension High

JERUSALEM (AP)—A new Syrian-Israeli clash brought new fear of war closer to the seething Middle East today.

Three Israeli policemen were killed as the two sides exchanged fire on the shores of the Sea of Galilee Sunday less than 48 hours after Jordan's King Hussein fired British Lt. Gen. John Bagot Glubb, the veteran Arab Legion chief.

The enraged Israelis branded the latest Galilee incident "a wanton attack. The Syrians still held one wounded Israeli policeman.

Western Diplomats Concerned

Western diplomats expressed open concern the Galilee clash might set off a chain reaction at a time when tensions are at their highest since the Arabs and Israelis fought in 1948.

"It's just this sort of shooting incident that can explode into a full-scale war right now," said one Western diplomat.

Western circles feared Israel might use the latest incident to launch a "preventive war" while she felt she still enjoyed military superiority.

There was also apprehension that Arab nationalism fanned to a new high by pride over Glubb's ouster, the Arab states might decide to go into action.

Jordan's dismissal of its military head brought a flurry of activity in Middle East and Asian capitals.

Premier Flies To Cairo

Syria's Premier Sal el Ghazal flew to Cairo with his defense minister and chief of staff. With Syrian President Shukri Kuwaty they were to confer with Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser on the Egyptian-Syrian defense pact.

El Ghazal announced earlier that Syria, Egypt and Saudi Arabia — all linked in mutual defense pacts — would go to Jordan's aid should Israel attack.

Meanwhile, Britain's Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd — who visited New Delhi en route to the SEATO meeting in Karachi — repeated Britain's proposal that Israeli and Arab forces withdraw from Israel's frontier. Lloyd recommended that the U.N. Palestine truce commission be increased to prevent incidents.

Israel's Prime Minister Ben-Gurion defied Jordan to start trouble. He told members of his Mafat party at a meeting near Tel Aviv he had heard King Hussein declared "he is now ready to destroy Israel."

"Let him try," said Ben-Gurion. Jordan's capital of Amman resumed its normal tenor today after three days of cheering, street-thronged demonstrations in support of Glubb's ouster. King Hussein in a special broadcast Sunday night thanked his subjects but asked them to go back to work.

British War Minister Antony Head arrived on the Mediterranean island of Cyprus, where Britain has two paratroop battalions ready to move to Jordan to protect British citizens if trouble comes. RAF transport planes were rushed to Cyprus over the weekend to evacuate Britons from Jordan if necessary.

A four-engine British plane caught fire and exploded under mysterious circumstances Sunday after it had made a refueling stop on Cyprus. With sabotage by Cypriots seeking union with Greece a possibility, the British launched an investigation.

Ohio's Weekend Traffic Toll Down

10 Killed On Roads;
2 Die In Plane Crash

By The Associated Press

Ohio's weekend traffic fatalities declined sharply from the toll of the preceding weekend.

Ten persons were killed on the state's highways compared with 25 the previous weekend.

An Associated Press survey of accidental deaths takes in the period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday.

In other type accidents, two men were killed when their small airplane crashed into a hill near North Kingsville in Ashtabula County. The pilot—fire chief at Lakeville—was stunting and looping the plane, police said.

A machinist was lying under a locomotive at a Cincinnati railroad yard when it rolled forward accidentally and injured him fatally.

The list of fatalities:

Friday night:
William J. Brogle, 12, of White Oak in Brown County struck by a car in Groesbeck near Cincinnati.

Saturday:
William C. Canterbury, 19, of Bedford near Cleveland, passenger in a car which collided with a truck in Bedford.

Herbert Edward Adkins Jr., 19, Mansfield, when his car collided with a train at a Mansfield crossing.

Rosaline Alene Brooks, 12, Cincinnati, died of injuries received Friday night when struck by an auto as she rode a bicycle on a city street.

Lee Forsythe, 60, Cincinnati, in a two-car collision in the city.

Mrs. Lottie Willis, 64, Cincinnati, struck by a car at a city intersection.

Charles Law, 76, of Brice, passenger in a truck which left a Franklin County road and struck a culvert.

Sunday:
Mrs. Addie Wilson, 54, Columbus, passenger in a car hit by a diesel engine at a Columbus crossing.

Robert Lewis Jr., three weeks old, of Fairborn near Dayton, in a two-car collision on a Greene County road.

Louis Wasserman, 61, Cleveland, struck by a car as he alighted from a city bus.

Roy Stevens, 60, Cincinnati machinist, died of injuries suffered Saturday when a locomotive under which he was lying rolled forward accidentally.

George Spalding, 30, Conneaut, and Stanley Alexander, 37, Ashtabula, when the small plane Spalding was piloting cracked up near North Kingsville after what police called stunt flying.

Girard Woman Gets Phone Calls Meant For U.S. Pentagon

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Pentagon spokesman says an Ohio housewife presents a "brand new confusion" with her tale of telephone woes.

Mrs. James G. Carmody of Girard, Ohio, says she gets a couple of telephone calls each day intended for the Pentagon. Her number, Liberty 5-6700, is the same as the Pentagon's.

The calls get short-circuited to Girard perhaps because someone has misdialed the "foreign area code" in dialing direct long distance.

A Pentagon spokesman professed puzzlement over the telephone calls.

"I've checked the chief operator, the supervisor of telephones at the Defense Department and the supervision of telephone service," he said. "None of them had ever heard of this happening before. This is a brand new confusion."

Police Continue Probe Into Slaying Of Woman

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Police continued investigating the bludgeoning slaying of a 48-year-old divorcee after releasing two men arrested for questioning.

Anthony Marion Erwin, 50, Oklahoma City barber and former husband of Mrs. Alma Belle Miller, was released along with Floyd A. Barnett, 32, Norman, Okla., her son-in-law.

Mrs. Miller's beaten body was found in her Oklahoma City apartment Saturday morning by her son, Robert Dale Moss, 24.

Church Leader Arthur Flemming Prepares U.S. For Atomic War

WASHINGTON (AP)—Arthur Sherwood Flemming devotes much of what spare time he has to church activities. On the job, he prepares for an atomic war—hoping it won't come.

This sums up the principal pursuits of the gray-haired and youthful looking man who took leave as president of Ohio Wesleyan University to direct the Office of Defense Mobilization.

As ODM director, Flemming is a key man in preparing the nation's defenses.

It's his job to see that American industry, men and materials are ready for sudden, all-out war.

He is concerned with spending billions. He sits in on cabinet meetings. He is briefed at National Security Council meetings on the secrets of Russian preparations.

Flemming attacks all of these grim matters with enthusiasm. At the same time he is an active Methodist and a top man in the National Council of Churches of Christ.

But the 50-year-old defense mobilizer sees no inconsistency in the two interests. To the contrary, he feels they are complementary.

Just the other day, in his office in the old state department building next to the White House, Flemming got into a rather animated discussion on the subject.

This, in paraphrase, is what he told his interviewer:

Like it or not, we're going to be in a cold war with Russia for 40, maybe 50 years. This probably will mean the current, record peace-time war implement spending of 35½ billion annually will go on for all that time.

It also will mean high taxes, constant world tension, and, to borrow a phrase from President Eisenhower, "an age of peril."

All this is absolutely necessary to "deter" Russia from attacking us. We have no alternative.

On the other hand—and these still are Flemming's views—there always remains the possibility that "spiritual forces" may filter behind the Iron Curtain and develop into a strong influence for peace.

This, then, is where religion comes in. As an example, Flemming said he understands the Baptist Church has made progress in Communist bloc countries.

It is these "spiritual forces," including American deeds abroad to help other countries, that could end the cold war.

Flemming doesn't know how much longer he will remain as ODM director, but says he is sure he'll return to Ohio Wesleyan.

Beyond that, he says, he just can't say. But getting back to the beginning of his argument, he will predict that even after many of us have grown old or are gone, there still will be somebody holding the job he now occupies as director of the Office of Defense Mobilization.

U.S. heart disease deaths declined from 169 to 100,000 in the 1931-35 period to 163 in the 1951-54 period, Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. statistics indicate.

Meeting Deborah Kerr

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—To me Deborah Kerr is one of the most beautiful and talented beings I have seen. She is a her with a whir-r-r-r-r!

To meet and talk with her in person was still, after all the movie people I had met, some thing of a personal adventure. She stirs in me the kind of goose pimples I used to feel when I wore real pimples.

I am beyond true paralyzing stage fright, but I came out of the brightness down the steps into the considered twilight of the 21 restaurant with some awe, not out of respect for the restaurant but out of respect for the actress I was to see.

At the greeting table very close to the entrance I identified myself, said I was to see Deborah Kerr, mentioned that she would be accompanied by a Mr. Leonard Wayne of Paramount Pictures.

"Is she here?" I asked of the dark, not unhandsome attendant. "No," he said positively.

"I'll wait in here," I said, uncomfortably, moving into the lounge area.

Big black brows didn't say yes or no. So I sidled into a chair. Nervously I fingered my wallet. There was no money in it but I knew it held an identity card from the U.S. Department of Defense, and I figured that in an emergency I could haul it out and cry "See! This is me!"

An elderly man near the door growled and half started for his chair.

"Wall Street must have collapsed," I thought nervously. But apparently it hadn't. Because the old man puffed back contentedly in his seat, like a smiling faced balloon.

This is one of the 10 great restaurants of the Western World. I had come in at 3:23 p.m., stuffed with superb haddock as dealt by P.J. (Himself) Moriarty, owner of a Sixth Avenue emporium of hunger.

A dignified lady passing by me gave a $12.65 belch; at least it sounded like $12.65—give or take half a buck. I felt justified in giving a dignified $1.75 burp back, based on the haddock.

No reply. Silence. Class will always tell.

Then I started looking at my watch. Had Deborah Kerr stood me up? It was quite a distinction, but one that somehow I did not want. She was one of the Hollywood few I really wanted to see.

The black-browed man at the door grumbled, vaguely at his table. I hurriedly reached for "Forbes," a magazine that has to do with business, and trusted no one but myself would realize my interest was purely temporary and not mercenary.

Then a tall young man, gilded in layers of renown between a birthday cake and an admiral, came up at 3:45 p.m., and said in a tone as apologetic as an usher who has seated a guest wrong in the cathedral at a cardinal's first mass:

"You were to see Miss Kerr?" She had been there all along, patiently waiting for half an hour.

As I turned the corner and entered where she was, her red gold hair and friendly blue green eyes, smilingly drew me through the mid-afternoon gloom. As I walked toward her I couldn't but envy the black-browed guardian at the door, so used to beauty that Deborah Kerr could have passed him unnoticed.

Bridges Sees Lausche More Difficult To Beat

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said Sunday night Ohio's Gov. Lausche "at this time would be a more difficult" Democratic Presidential candidate for the GOP to beat "than others who are running."

He said he did not know who would be the hardest to beat in November. The hardest Stevenson is waging a formidable campaign, Bridges said. "He (Stevenson) has a brilliant mind", but "may talk himself out in eight or nine months," Bridges added.

The trucker driver, 46-year-old Anthony Marzilli of Pittsburgh, escaped unhurt.

Killed instantly were Mrs. Helen Clark, 32, of RD 1, Coraopolis, and Mrs. Susan Druga, 43, of Imperial, visitors in the home.

Mrs. Francis Kaelin, 49, who lived there, suffered lacerations and shock.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Within five minutes after President Eisenhower got his decision off his chest, one of labor's top political strategists told me that they could not beat like this fall.

The union chiefs, who are methodically and quietly building one of the most effective machines in the history of their political action, believe it makes no difference whom the Democrats nominate. They'd prefer Gov. Avers Harriman or Sen. Estes Kefauver, but they will fight for Adlai Stevenson if he is named. Labor's real battle, however, will be on the state fronts — to keep Congress in the hands of men friendly to labor and to reverse the traditional impact of successful presidential candidates who have almost always won control of Congress, too.

Victor Riesel

LABOR HAS A LIST of men it wants to elect and those it wants to defeat. There are those who call this a purge list. If you do so in the presence of AFL-CIO leader George Meany, you spark some real spontaneous combustion.

There was that noon-day conference in the "Television Room" of the Hotel Monte Carlo in Miami Beach when Meany met the press on Wednesday, Feb. 8.

Meany chewed out a wire service correspondent and left the lad as limp as George's cigar. Meany resented the wire service's report of a political purge list. He denied it. He repudiated it. He excoriated it. Some of us went straight for the pool to cool off.

But the fact is that just a few hours earlier Jim McCevitt and Jack Kroll, labor's political action chiefs had turned in a report urging concentration on the defeat of 12 GOP Senators: Tom Kuchel of Calif.; Gene Millikin, Colo.; Prescott Bush, Conn.; Everett Dirksen, Ill.; Homer Capehart, Ind.; Bourke Hickenlooper, Iowa; Frank Carlson, Kan.; John Butler, Md.; George Bender, Ohio (who may have John L. Lewis' support against Democratic Gov. Frank Lausche); James Duff, Pa.; Wallace Bennett, Utah; and Alexander Wiley, Wis.

MEANY'S REACTION to the description of this list as a purge program was not just routine irritation over premature publication of a story. Meany is a veteran when it comes to political footwork. He knows well the reaction of the rest of the country to announcements by anyone, but especially anyone in labor, of a purge of any person from political life.

The significance of Meany's anger lies in the tactic it reflects. There will be no grandiose statements and no fiery announcements of vast political plans while he leads the AFL-CIO.

Labor will work quietly and more effectively. The national Committee on Political Education (COPE) will guide the regional organizations — it will not "invade" states. To make this strategy effective, COPE has cut up the U.S. into nine political regions. Each has a central political headquarters — and a regional director.

THESE DISTRICT chiefs will coordinate the AFL politicians, many of whom still have their high button shoes and bowler hats in the closet, and the younger, sometimes hyperthyroid, CIO officials who feel that their elders are holding them down.

If possible, the political directors will attempt to wipe out feuds inside labor and thus keep the union leaders from splitting over candidates. This may not be possible. The teamsters, for example, plan to split their ticket all along the local fronts. Only recently a big teamsters organization in St. Louis — close to Jim Hoffa — blasted Ohio's Gov. Lausche and Missouri's Gov. Donnelly, both Democrats.

What the nine COPE regional chiefs are under instructions to do is to elect 12 new "friendly" senators and 41 members of the House of Representatives to give the unions a full "pro-labor" majority in Congress. This means going into the primaries and fighting the nominations of certain Democrats as well as battling the Republicans in the national election itself.

LABOR MEN, who can count a budget as tightly as a New England Yankee housewife before harvest time, know this will take considerable money. They will push for some 3 million dollars in outright contributions — and, of course, will throw their regional union machinery into the fight in the final weeks when practically all other union activity will take a holiday.

If Ike wants a friendly Congress next year, he'll have to find some way to cope with COPE this fall.

GOP Women Wear Skirts Trimmed With Elephant

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Four California delegates en route to the national conference of Republican women were wearing skirts of white poodle cloth trimmed with a waltzing GOP elephant.

Scattered around the jolly jumbo are red and blue stars. Mrs. Ganell Baker of Pomona, head of the GOP-skirted quartet, said she hopes other Republican women's clubs will adopt her idea of selling the skirts to finance Republican campaigns this year.

Former Grand Master Of Ohio Masons Dies

PAULDING, Ohio (AP)—Common Pleas Judge Edward W. Kuns of Paulding County, former grand master of Ohio Masons, died Sunday in Bradenton, Fla., a funeral home at nearby Payne said it was notified. He was 50.

Kuns, apparently in Florida on vacation, died after a heart attack, the home said. His body will be returned to Payne near where he lived.

Kuns had served one term as Common Pleas judge and was running for re-election this year. He was a former Paulding County prosecutor and had been grand master of Ohio Masons until last October.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete. Kuns is survived by his wife, three daughters and a son, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kuns, Payne.

Sen. Case Wins His Point

A presidential veto of the natural gas bill whose Senate passage was clouded when Sen. Case revealed one of its backers had tried to give unsolicited and unwanted money to his campaign fund was more than he could have hoped for when he cast his personal vote of protest.

President Eisenhower, like Sen. Case, believes in the gas bill.

But the President, like the senator, objects to the tactics of those who wanted it passed. Like the senator, he looks upon that campaign offer as a violation of the moral code that should govern all public officials.

It may be a violation, but it is not unique. There is not a member of Congress who can afford to cast the first stone in judgment, unless he never has accepted a campaign contribution from anyone.

Contributors to campaign funds put their money where they think it will do the most good. Labor unions help candidates who will be likely to favor their proposals in the future because they always favored them in the past. Businessmen, veterans, farmers, railroads, truckers, road builders and so on do not knowingly contribute a red cent to candidates who might oppose their interests and principals.

This is the way it is done. It was done that way when Dwight Eisenhower was running for the presidency in 1952, and it was done that way when Sen. Case ran for the Senate in 1950.

The gas bill was put under a cloud on the eve of its passage by Sen. Case's dramatic allegation that someone had been tampering with his morality. The presidential veto has put every senator who voted for the bill under a cloud.

What happens now if it is revealed that opponents of the bill also supported their friends and punished their enemies? Are they under the same cloud?

It is not to be expected that the senators who voted against the gas bill all had taken a vow of political penury in their 1956 campaigns, if any.

Agreement At Last

When party-line Communists in the Kremlin agree with opinion in the United States, it's news.

They now declare Stalin was a dictator, that he substituted totalitarianism for socialism, that he denied the doctrine of Marx and the apostleship of Lenin and was a ruthless political opportunist who used the Communist party in Russia and the Communist conspiracy in the world to serve his personal ambition.

They say that Stalin made suckers of all people who mouthed his praises and knuckled under to his tyranny. They accuse him of being a fraud.

They admit that a Communist must have been lint-headed to find anything in common between Karl Marx, the misguided and lopsided zealot who guessed wrong about the outcome of the industrial revolution, and Josef Stalin, the misguided and lopsided oppressor who cut his enemies' throats to preserve his seizure of power in Russia and his own cynical subversion of the high hopes of the Bolsheviks.

They now believe in Lenin, they explain. Stalin is a dog. Dictatorship if individuals is and always has been evil. Collective rules is going to be the thing from now on.

Anyone want to bet?

Evolution Of An Idea

When Congress raised the minimum wage for workers in interstate commerce last year to $1 an hour, effective March 1, it was estimated 2 million workers would be affected directly.

It cannot even be estimated how many workers will be involved indirectly. The studies made by the Labor Department since the first minimum wage of 25 cents an hour was prescribed by Congress in 1938 reveal that effects are so gradual they cannot be measured. But the studies show the evolution of an idea that started out to be one thing and has become something else.

Originally, the purpose of a federal minimum-wage law was to protect workers in distressed industries and low-wage areas against exploitation by marginal operators of low-wage enterprises, such as textiles. The purpose today is to protect employers against low-wage competitors. Some of the strongest support for the boost from 75 cents to a dollar last year came from New England textile enterprise resentful of southern competition.

Employers paying a living wage are just as vulnerable to low-wage competition inside the United States as they are to competition from low-wage enterprise in foreign countries. And they are just as determined to protect themselves and their employees. Northern sawmill operators are another group aligned against southern competition geared to low-wage scales. Southern sawmills have been forced into line by the federal wage floor.

Minimum wages are not humanitarianism any more; they are business survival.

Democrat Springboard

By ALAN EMORY

Second Place Aspirants Pin Hopes On Probes

Three Democratic aspirants for vice president may use the broad inquiry into lobbying activity as a springboard to the national ticket.

Only Sen. John L. McClellan of Arkansas among Democrats on the special committee is out of the picture so far as 1956 is concerned.

The situation is quite different for the other three majority members — Senators Albert Gore, Clinton P. Anderson and John F. Kennedy.

All are being mentioned prominently for the second spot on the Democratic ticket this fall.

Sen. Gore, a graying blond with wavy hair, has a youthful face that belies his 47 years. A fiery speaker with piercing blue eyes, he is highly touted among fellow senators as a "comer."

WHILE OTHER Tennesseans have been grabbing their share of the spotlight — mainly presidential hopeful Estes Kefauver and Gov. Frank G. Clement, who is aiming for the vice-presidential nomination under Adlai E. Stevenson — Sen. Gore has been building up prestige in Washington and hoping for a stalemate ticket-wise among his colleagues on the TVA state.

Sen. Anderson organized his drive for the national ticket some time ago. Coming from a state with a minimum of political influence, he has employed his position as chairman of the joint congressional committee on atomic energy as a vehicle for considerable publicity.

He has engaged the services of a top-flight speech-writer, Doyle Kline, whose efforts lampooning the administration stole the show at the dinner of the Democratic national committee's nationalities division recently and who set up a major speech on atomic energy in Cleveland blasting the Atomic Energy Commission's "secrecy" policies.

SEN. ANDERSON reportedly told Senate Majority Leader Johnson that he was reluctant to serve on the select committee, but would if the Texan really wanted him to. Actually, the senator needs to build himself up in the public eye, if he is to win serious consideration for the V.P. nomination.

Both Anderson and Gore have ready senses of humor and lively recognition of political niceties that have stood them in good stead. Gore's problems lie in the competition from Tennessee, Anderson's from his small home state and his position in support of the administration's controversial farm program, although recently he has been critical of Secretary Benson.

As to Sen. Kennedy, the youthful New Englander with his trademark of an unruly shock of brown hair is a late-comer to the second-place lists.

THERE HAS BEEN a careful publicity campaign to increase his stature for possible nomination. Some reports say it was inspired by his father, former ambassador to Great Britain. The senator has disclaimed knowledge of any such public relations effort.

Kennedy, nevertheless, is one of three leading Catholics being pushed for national nomination, the others being Ohio's Gov. Lausche and New York's Mayor Wagner.

The senator was all set to ride the wave of a series of hearings on the lobbying situation that were to lead to corrective legislation. The explosion of the $2,500 "campaign contribution" to Sen. Case by an oil lobbyist trying to line up support for the vetoed natural gas bill, snaked the issue out from under a government operations subcommittee chaired by the Bay State.

THIS DOESN'T MEAN Kennedy is out of the lobby legislation picture. His panel still has jurisdiction there and may eventually take some action, but the headlines won't be focused there.

Instead, they will be on the select committee.

Gore, Anderson and Kennedy, it is expected, will use their positions as lobby investigators for all they are worth to increase their personal standing and the chances that one of them might wind up running this fall.

Nixon Another Dr. Fell

By RAYMOND MOLEY

WAUSAU, Wisc.

A good reflection of political opinion involved in keeping or dropping Nixon as vice presidential candidate is offered in a poll conducted by the United Press. Twenty-five Republican state chairmen were for nominating Nixon; 11 were for Nixon, but "It's up to Ike." Four were for whomever the President wants; two were for someone else; and six were noncommittal. The two who were for someone else preferred Sen. Knowland and former Gov. Dan Thornton.

This opinion of hard-bitten political experts may be puzzling to some citizens who have "heard so many criticisms of the vice president." It needs a bit of explaining in very practical political terms.

It is hardly necessary to note that there are many people who do not care for Nixon. On this trip to the Midwest I have found exactly what can be found in New York and Washington on that point. I tried here to get at the bottom of one man's anti-Nixon attitude. In response, he said that there was nothing in particular, but that he heard a lot of people say that Nixon was too aggressive. Then he identified the "people" as mostly Democrats. Beyond that, the explanation wandered into still more vague territory. I suggested that this sounded like the old verse: "I do not love the, Dr. Fell; the reason why I cannot tell."

However, the doubt about Nixon is real and certainly will lose the President a good many votes. No one knows that better than the very practiced state chairmen mentioned above, whose chairmen are not favoring the nomination of Nixon because they are influenced by sentiment. They want to win, and if they thought their chances of winning would be better with someone else on the ticket, they would say so.

They are, I am sure, weighing two alternatives, both of which would lose their ticket a number of votes. The first is to renominate Nixon and lose the anti-Nixon vote. The other would be to unload him and precipitate a Kilkenny fight over replacement.

Anyone else would have his enemies, too. Some would be too internationalist for the Midwest; others would be too isolationist for the East. Everyone would be too much of something or other. An intra-party fight would result which would be disastrous. In short, the calculations of the state chairmen are that more votes would be lost by dropping Nixon than by keeping him.

The hard nugget of political wisdom involved here is that no one who could be nominated for vice president could do any better than take votes from President Eisenhower. The problem is which candidate would lose him the fewest. If there were anyone who would add to the vote of Eisenhower, the real logic would be to drop the President and run that more popular person for president himself.

I learned that truth from the late Edward J. Flynn, boss of the Bronx and major figure in dropping Wallace in 1944 and nominating Truman instead. He told me later that his advice to Roosevelt was that Wallace would lose him the election.

When Roosevelt asked him for a substitute he suggested a rather obscure senator named Truman. The President asked the extra-ordinarily shrewd Flynn for the reason for such a choice. Flynn answered: "Truman will do you less harm on the ticket than anyone else. No one can help you. It is a question of the least of evils, and all candidates for vice president are necessary evils. They lose votes for the head of the ticket."

That is the main reason why practical politicians prefer Nixon. There is another reason, to be sure. Nixon is a vigorous campaigner, and with a presidential candidate who expects to make only a moderately active campaign, a good trouper will be necessary.

So They Say

Use your common sense. Take vigorous exercise and work and eat less food.

—Dr. Paul Dudley White, heart specialist, in advice to Americans anxious to avoid heart attacks.

I consider the AFL-CIO primarily an economic organization, and not — Dave Beck, president Teamsters' won't get into politics.

—Dave Beck, president Teamsters' Union.

Presidential Handicap

Little-Understood Leninist Dogma

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

It is not at all surprising that the Marxist-Leninist dogma should be so little understood outside the Soviet universal state. After all,

Roman Catholics and Protestants belong to the Christian religion and they hardly ever understand each other and neither knows much about Judaism from which they both stem. Jews and Moslems originated from the same Semite races and have religions which are closely akin but that has not made it possible for them to live in peace.

The Marxist-Leninist dogma, in all its phases, seems absurd to the western mind. The biologic interpretation of man, the complete omission of God and of any expression of mysticism, the elimination of personal liberty and the subordination of the individual to a social environment which not only dominates him but molds his personality, the avoidance of the profit concept in economics and the reinstitution of slave labor—the western mind resists such notions of life.

IT WAS EASIER when Stalin was the master of Russia because Stalin was a brutal autocrat, a twentieth century reincarnation of Genghis Khan. Stalin was not even true to the Marxist-Leninist dogma, as the Twentieth Congress of the Communist party USSR has now declared. He built his own dogma in a book called "Foundations of Leninism," and he demanded an unflinching orthodoxy.

He was uncompromising with those who even slightly deviated from his decisions which covered the entire gamut of human thought and activity. Deviators he had killed or, in a gentler mood, he exiled them to the tundras of Siberia. He organized for world conquest and held his power until he died.

Opposition to Stalin was constant in Russia and in the world Communist parties. He met the opposition by purges in the course of which he destroyed his betters, the founders of his party. When I encountered Stalin at the Smolny Institute in Petrograd in 1917, he was not even newsworthy compared with Trotsky, Kameney, Zinoviev, Bukharin, etc. He killed them all.

AFTER STALIN'S death, the Communist party had either to return to the Marxist-Leninist dogma or degenerate into a struggle for power among men ambitious to be dictators like Stalin.

In 1952, the latter seemed possible in the triumvirate of Beria, Malenkov, and Molotov when Stalin had appointed to succeed him.

The emergency of Khrushchev ended the struggle because he reverted to the Marxist-Leninist dogma and to the dictatorship of the party rather than of one man. This is called "collective leadership."

It is too early to grasp all that happened at the Twentieth Congress. However, it would seem to me that from an historic standpoint, this was a momentous gathering and that it is likely to strengthen the Soviet universal state because it will bring into line dissident factions inside and outside Russia.

TO POSSESS POWER, Khrushchev avoided the seizure of power, assuming that differences of opinion do not really amount to much in the long run. Whereas Stalin could not effect a chance in murder, Khrushchev does not even deprive Malenkov and Molotov of office, thus making them increasingly dependent upon him. Undoubtedly, Khrushchev possesses a sense of humor, which could not be said of Stalin.

The danger to the United States lies in this very sense of humor which makes Khrushchev more flexible than Stalin was. And it is this flexibility which has won for Khrushchev the great diplomatic victory of neutralism which is a peril to the United States.

Stalin long played with the idea of moving into the Moslem world but found no way to do it; Khrushchev moved in boldly even while the Summit Conference was being held at Geneva.

IT IS BEYOND belief that our officials did nothing about that except to say that the situation is precarious and ought not to become a campaign issue in 1956.

The absurdity of the position of our State Department will become obvious when Israel too purchases arms from Czechoslovakia and Poland which possess ample means to arm any small nation that would like to do any fighting anywhere. What will John Foster Dulles say to that? Will he say that Soviet Russia encourages neutralism among our allies because they fear us? By that logic, why not encourage neutralism among some of Russia's satellites?

The Twentieth Congress, it strikes me, is a turning point in history and not a good one for us.

How To Strike It Rich

By TRUMAN TWILL

Someone could strike it rich by following me around with a tape recorder, then betting against me on my guesses about public figures and public affairs.

I goofed my guess about Dwight Eisenhower. I have never made a right guess in presidential politics. The first national election I got into playground fights about as a kid was the year Harding beat Cox. I was still a Wilson Democrat that year.

When speculation hotted up about the Eisenhower decision on a second term, I got out the crystal ball with the flaw and peered into it through the same distorted perspective.

That always has been the trouble—the flaw in the crystal ball. It fools me every time. It is a pretty expensive flaw.

I see only what I want to see, then I jump to the conclusion I have seen what really is. That's the flaw.

I wanted to see a gent I could be fond of in a nonpolitical way enjoy the set-up he and his girl friend fabricated out of their dreams in the countryside at Gettysburg.

It seemed to me they had it coming, with all due respect to all the other rewards they have reaped. But no one can live on glory and prestige alone; the Eisenhowers have had all of that sort of thing they need and probably more than they can enjoy.

That was the flaw in the crystal ball playing tricks again.

I was seeing only what I wanted to see and not what was really there—the sense of responsibility to the nation, to the people who were in the Eisenhower administration, to the political party he had given Dwight Eisenhower a presidential nomination and to the nearly 40 million Americans who voted for him in 1952.

I did not see those things. How could I?

I saw only the farmhouse near Gettysburg with the morning sun on it and the dew on the grass in summertime, the cattle grazing in the rolling pastures . . . things like that.

I saw Ike and Mamie eating breakfast and looking out at the peaceful countryside. I saw them going for a post-prandial stroll without a photographer within miles. I saw a novice driving that new red tractor he was given last summer—no hands and no photographers.

A nap after lunch. A drive through the country. Picnics with good companions. Autumn evenings in front of a fireplace. Strolls under the stars on fragrant summer nights with myriads of stars twinkling in a black velvet canopy. Grandchildren playing on the lawn. Flowers to admire. Little decisions to make at leisure, such as what to have for Sunday night supper.

Friends dropping in to enjoy unburied and cheerful hospitality. Leaves turning green in springtime and blowing to earth in a fall rain. The march of the seasons.

The man had all this coming, to enjoy in his own good time and on his own terms, if that was what he wanted. And because that is what I would want, I lost my bets as usual.

Yes, someone could strike it rich by following me around with a tape recorder. First, find out what Twill thinks, then bet your head off in the other direction. It would be better than a uranium mine with a railroad siding running through the middle.

Contrary to popular opinion, potatoes eaten without added fat are not fattening since a medium-sized potato contains about 100 calories.

Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Quiet Please

In the crack-down on horn-tooting in New York, the week saw a general warning period. This is going to make trouble in countless homes and offices. When a fellow reaches home or shop with all his impatience pent up and suppressed he is going to be pretty irritable and explosive.

Stop the American motorist from blowing his horn and you increase his irascibility, heighten his nervous tension and fill him with frustration and the idea he is being denied a constitutional right. (We think a city should provide huge underground tooting centers to which chronic tooters can go every five miles or so, and blow to their hearts content, thus leaving themselves in shape to be fit company for man or beast above ground.)

WAY A MAN who while on foot would not think of sneaking up behind another pedestrian and blowing a bugle in his or her ear toots his head off when at the wheel of a car has always puzzled us. We conducted a few interviews on the street, asking the question, "Why do you blow that horn so often?"

Peter Finch, writer, the Bronx: It's my way of expressing my dissatisfaction with things in general. I am not always tooting at traffic congestions. Most of the time I am tooting to indicate distaste for our foreign policy, show discontent over a weather prediction or reflect disappointment over a luncheon date.

Hilary Puzell, philatelist, Carnarvie: Me! I have always blown the horn because up to now I thought it was expected of me. This is a fine time to tell me I'm wrong.

Caleb McGrew, businessman, Cos Cob: The auto makers will soon be charging extra for the horn. I want to get in all the toots I can before this happens.

Abernathy Smith, broker, Babylon, L. I.: It ain't the toot that intrigues me; it's the echo! Wilbur Flitts, painter, Murray Hill, N. Y.: I have two thumbs on each hand. They must have been put there for a reason.

Gridley Potts, Hoboken, N. J.: I don't get much chance to express myself at home or in the office.

GRETCHEN WYLER, musical comedy singer, has been named Miss Quiet City for 1956, and she had better put chimes on her auto. The slogan is "Don't be a goose! Hold that horn," which is not too good. We would suggest "Don't Drive by Ear." "Why Be a Blow-Hard in Public?" or "Do you have to wake the dead to enjoy living?"

We don't think horn tooting can be stopped much and our committee would have included Lena Horne, Jack Yellen, Rory Calhoun, and "Toots" Shor.

THE REMARKABLE THING about Secretary Dulles in our book is that he works without a NET.

Bob Kiputh, colorful master of swimming wizardry at Yale, has taken a high dive into the pool of literature, coming up with "How to Be Fit" and if we were the Doubleday publicity man we would have Esther Williams write a review of it under water.

Italy's President, now on a formal visit to Washington, is no newcomer . . . He often toured our big cities as a paint salesman . . . (Now, he wants varnish!)

A noted gangster is reported running a botanical shop and nursery . . . He just looks at the first shoots of a seed and says, "Get 'em up!" And we hear he is developing a non-shrinking violet that swaggers.

Sammy Renick is suing to have his wealthy wife's Nevada divorce decree set aside . . . This is a new use of the race-track term "unofficial." As we get it in the Renick domestic sweepstakes, Cupid was away fast, got blocked at first turn, got into deep going at three-quarter pole and faded fast in the stretch.

A CHAIN SHOE COMPANY is offering shoes for a dollar down and installment payments . . . Now for a pair of socks with 25 years in which to own them outright!

Party Planned For Salem Woman, 86

The 86th birthday anniversary of Mrs. Maggie Henninger will be celebrated at a family party Tuesday evening at the home of her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Regal of RD 4, Salem. Mrs. Henninger makes her home with the Regals.

Another daughter, Mrs. Luella Giebler, lives on a farm near Beilert. She also has two grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

A native of Green Township, Mahoning County, Mrs. Henninger was born on a farm there. Her parents were Lemuel and Lavina Leyman. A brother, Clark Leyman, resides in Salem.

Mrs. Henninger has some vivid recollections of Salem. One that stands out in her memory is that of Sept. 20, 1881. On that day when driving through Salem's main street she observed that it was draped in mourning. Then she heard the cry that seemed to be on everyone's lips—"The president is dead."

The president referred to was the martyred president, James A. Garfield. The news of his death had not reached her country home.

At the age of eight she drove a horse and buggy into Salem alone to get the family's supply of groceries. She recalls the June flood of 78 years ago in which all but one of the bridges in Ellsworth Township were swept away. At the time of this flood she was sent on an errand to a neighbor's home alone and drove a horse and buggy through Beaver Creek, the bridge having gone down in the storm. As a very young girl she took grist to the mill on horseback.

Mrs. Henninger had her first picture taken in Salem at the age of 10. It was winter and she made the six-mile trip in a big sled drawn by two horses. An itinerant photographer had set up a shop on Broadway.

Mrs. Henninger has kept a diary of interesting events, and has two collections: bottles and buttons.

Among her buttons are some little solid brass ones with a design on the top. These are a hundred years old and were on a little coat worn by her husband. Another small black one was used on her dress when she was 14. She memorizes poetry and recently recited "I Met The Master Face to Face" at the Assembly of God Church. She enjoys listening to religious programs on the radio.

campaign and Knowland said he wasn't recommending that type of vote seeking.

Goldwater, however, predicted Eisenhower would lose some "barnstorming" because "he's a campaigner at heart."

Hall said he believes any presidential campaign trips would "be at a minimum"—limited perhaps to a few flying visits to major cities. He said he foresaw no cross-country train trip.

Since Eisenhower said "yes" to a second term bid, a big question among Republicans has been who his running mate will be. Eisenhower has been noncommittal.

Hall said everyone seemed concerned about this except Vice President Nixon. He predicted, as he has before, that Nixon will be renominated.

Friends of the vice president said Nixon won't give up second place on the ticket if the choice is his. They expressed doubt he might prefer moving to a Cabinet or other high post.

In his interview, Goldwater was asked about a report that he had received a contribution from the Kecks.

"That is correct," Goldwater said. He added:

"If Mr. Keck likes the way I vote he has a perfect right to give money to me."

Goldwater said that neither Keck nor any of some 200 other contributors to his campaign has ever asked a special favor of him.

It was not clear whether Goldwater or his questioner were talking about Howard Keck, though the questioner referred to him as "Mr. Keck, who seems to be, shall we say, the source of this trouble at the start."

The questioning, however, grew out of an earlier Drew Pearson broadcast in which Pearson reported, an aide said, that Goldwater had received a contribution from Matthew Keck of the Superior Oil family.

According to patrolmen, Post was making a left turn as Arluragi attempted to pass.

Carrasquel, 'Upset' With Chisox, Happy With Indians

Claims Marion Criticized Him

Regalado Blasts 3 Homers In Squad Game

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Shortstop Chico Carrasquel says he was "mentally upset" last season with the Chicago White Sox, but now he is happy and hopes "I can do my best" for the Cleveland Indians.

Carrasquel said Sunday he and White Sox Manager Marty Marion did not see eye to eye.

"Marty, he never satisfied," he said. "I play pretty good ball in the field. Hit pretty good, too. But Marty, he never satisfied. All the time criticize me."

Carrasquel, who came to the Indians in the deal that sent outfielder Larry Doby to Chicago, reported here three days later. He said he had difficulty getting plane transportation from Venezuela.

"I was not happy last season and maybe it show," Chico said. "I try to do my best, but I hear I might be traded to Cleveland and I think, 'I hope so.' Bobby Avila, he always tell me I be traded to Cleveland."

"Now I'm happy and I hope I can do my best. Maybe we win pennant."

Manager Al Lopez revealed the Indians started making plans to obtain the Venezuelan shortstop when stories came out of Chicago that all was not well between Marion and Carrasquel.

Big Mike Garcia, under observation over the weekend for a possible appendicitis attack, was to resume workouts today, but Dr. Don Kelly, the team physician, will keep a check on him.

Blood counts indicate that no operation is necessary. Garcia, one of the Tribe's "big three" pitchers, was taken to a clinic after complaining of a pain in his right side.

"My side is still sore, but not like it was," Garcia said.

Rudy Regalado hit a home run with the bases loaded in the last frame yesterday to give Tony Cuccinello's team a 13-9 victory over a team managed by Coach Red Kress in a six-inning intra-squad game. He also hit two other homers, each with a teammate on base, to drive in eight of his team's 13 runs.

Sam Mele hit a grand slam for Cuccinello's team in the fourth inning to tie the score at 7-7. Regalado's homer came with two outs and the score tied at 9-9.

Bud Smith, De Marco To Battle Tonight

BOSTON (AP) — Lightweight champion Wallace (Bud) Smith and welterweight contender Tony DeMarco will be fighting a "war of vindication" tonight in a non-title scrap not expected to last the scheduled 10 rounds.

The Boston Garden bout between the 135-pound ruler from Cincinnati and the hard-punching DeMarco from Boston's North End will not be televised or broadcast.

On the strength of his one-punch take-out powers, left hooking Tony is rated a 10 to 7 favorite.

DeMarco is looking beyond the fight to a third shot at the welter crown he held for 70 days a year ago. He wants the winner of the March 14 Carmen Basilio-Johnny Saxton title match.

Sandusky High School was second with 28, and Lakewood and Upper Arlington tied for third with 23 each.

Frank Yokoun of Lakewood was the meet's only double-winner—the 100-yard backstroke and 150-yard medley. He set a new meet record of 1:35.6 in the medley.

In diving competition, Cincinnati Central placed first and second for the meet's only one-two finish. Al Warren won the event with 262.20 points followed by teammate John Deiningner. William Myers of Fremont Ross was third.

Ohio College Cagers To End 55-56 Season

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The curtain is about to fall on Ohio's 1955-56 basketball campaign—a season featured by Buckeye domination of out-of-state foes, and the "home floor advantage."

Ohio State invades Minnesota tonight, and Defiance entertains Tri-State of Indiana Tuesday to end the regular schedule. Then Dayton and Xavier go into the NIT at Madison Square Garden, and Central State represents Ohio in the NAIA at Kansas City.

Xavier tuned up for its NIT chores yesterday by nipping Steubenville's Barons 85-67, knocking the easterners from the top of the Ohio best-record list where they had rested with a 24-3 mark.

Ohio State can assure a third-place finish in the Big Ten, far better than pre-season expectations with a win over Minnesota. Robin Freeman, the Bucks' ace point-guarder, scored 43 in Saturday's 96-84 win over Michigan State to boost his average to 32.8 with a 690 total for 21 contests.

The Buckeye squads lost six of 10 interstate games last week, but wound up with 158 victories against 119 losses against the outside teams and massed 22,196 points in such play to 20,746 for the "foreigners."

Of last week's 31 games, the hosts won 20 to continue the trend which has been noted all season. For the year the hosts have triumphed 369 times and the visitors 167, a huge 202-game edge in favor of the home floors.

The conference champions—Cincinnati—Marshall (10-2); Ohio Conference—Akron (9-1); Mid-Ohio League—Defiance (11-1); Presidents—Wayne of Detroit (6-0).

Shelley Mayfield Wins At Baton Rouge

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Shelley Mayfield, a three-stroke winner in the $12,500 Baton Rouge Open, today headed for his Los Angeles home and a visit with his new daughter.

Mayfield dropped a 22-foot putt for a birdie on the par-four 17th hole Sunday, then sank a six-footer for another birdie on the last hole to pull away from Jimmy Demaret after the two were even for 16 holes.

The blond, sun-tanned Californian, chalking up his first victory on the winter tour, finished with a 3-under-par 69 over the 6,450-yard Baton Rouge Country Club course. He had a 277 total and won $2,200.

Demaret, Kiamasha Lake, N.Y., had a par 72 and fell into a five-way tie for second at 280 after 72 holes. Mayfield and Demaret shared the lead at the three-quarter mark.

Deadlocked with Demaret were Doug Ford, also of Kiamasha Lake; Walter Burkemo, Franklin, Mich.; Freddie Haas, Claremont, Calif.; and Fred Hawkins, El Paso, Tex. Each won $1,046.

Ford and Burkemo both finished with 68s. Hawkins had 70 and Haas 71.

The North Lima Zippers, paced by Bruce Plasket, dumped seeded Leetonia in the sectional finals at Youngstown South Fieldhouse Saturday night and Lowellville, Mahoning County Class B. Champs, stopped Lordstown to gain berths in the district finals at Kent.

Leetonia, after leading the "Zips" 24-23 at halftime faltered and North Lima turned the tide as they outpointed them 14-2 in the third period and went on to win 52-43. Plasket led the Zipper attack with 30 points and John Mandish hit for 21 to pace Leetonia.

In the final game of the evening the high flying Lowellville Rockets downed Lordstown 52-47. The Rockets will proceed to Kent where they will meet Loudonville on Wednesday. North Lima will battle Copley on Tuesday.

Here's Rundown On Figures In Santee Case

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP) — You can't tell the players without a program, so here's a rundown on the principals in the strangest track and field case in American history:

Wes Santee—America's No. 1 miler. Suspended for life by the Amateur Athletic Union for accepting excessive expenses after being cleared by his own district association on the same charges. A temporary injunction enabled him to run in the Knights of Columbus Columbian Mile last Saturday. His winning time was 4:13.8.

Charles P. Grimes—Santee's attorney, and off the results thus far, a mighty successful one. He obtained the injunction, then fought off an AAU appeal.

Pinky Sober—Chief of the AAU's track and field committee, who wrote the report that convicted Santee. He acts as announcer at Madison Square Garden meets and only he knows how he felt when he was forced to announce Santee as an entry in the mile.

Dan Ferris—The big man in the AAU, who usually says nothing that might get him in trouble on any side. This time he thought he was on safe ground, though, and warned meet promoters that they'd be thrown out of the AAU, if they had any truck with Santee. The courts decided otherwise and he has to back down.

Avery Brundage — Here's the key man. All-powerful in Olympic circles, athletes, coaches and governments fear him. To put it mildly, he is no admirer of Santee.

Santee's temporary injunction runs out Friday and a hearing will be held in New York State Supreme Court to determine if it should be made permanent. If it is made permanent, then the miler is an amateur in good standing no matter what the AAU says and he'll go in the Milwaukee Journal Games Saturday.

Before the "Columbian Mile," Brundage thundered from his California retreat:

"If I were those amateurs, I wouldn't run against Santee."

That was enough for anyone. Most of the other big names ducked out. They ran in a "special" mile, won by Ron Delany in 4:11.4.

The rest of the K. of C. meet was buried under the Santee controversy, but there were some fine performances, namely Don Bragg's 15-154 pole vault and George Synder's 61-60 yard dash. Bragg's effort was the highest ever in the Garden and Synder's clocking equaled the world indoor record for the distance held by numerous runners.

Knicks Trip Syracuse 118-111, Lakers Win

By The Associated Press

The battle for playoff positions in the National Basketball Assn. apparently is going right down to the wire.

With the end of the season only 10 days away, the third place Syracuse Nationals lead the New York Knicks by only one game in the eastern division. The Minneapolis Lakers currently are in second place in the western division, but by just a half-game over St. Louis.

Rochester, in the cellar, trails the Hawks by another half-game.

The Nats and Knicks have six games left, Minneapolis seven, St. Louis eight and Rochester three.

The Knicks, threatened with finishing out of the playoffs for the first time in their history, climbed back into contention Sunday by defeating Syracuse 118-111 in double overtime. Minneapolis jumped from fourth to second in the western race by downing St. Louis 113-84.

Fort Wayne, with the Western title all but sewed up, finished fast to beat Rochester 109-88. And the Boston Celtics kept the Philadelphia Warriors from clinching the Eastern title, winning 128-114 on 43 points in the final period.

Michigan Wins In Big 10 Track

Buckeyes Capture 8th Swim Championship

CHICAGO (AP) — Champions in Big Ten winter sports repeated with monotonous regularity over the weekend with Michigan's Wolverines winning the coveted track title by beating out Iowa.

Michigan also repeated as the wrestling champion; Ohio State won its eighth straight swimming title, and Illinois made it seven straight in gymnastics.

The only switch saw Illinois regain the fencing title by dethroning Wisconsin. It was Illinois' sixth fencing crown in seven years.

Michigan captured four firsts in the track meet at East Lansing and shared another individual title roll up 57 9-10 points to 46 7-10 for runnerup Iowa.

Iowa was third with 43 1-5, Michigan State had 33 2-5, Illinois 20 1-5, Northwestern 10, Wisconsin 7 1-10, Minnesota 5 1/2, Ohio State 5 1-5, and Purdue 1 1-5.

Jim Golliday, Northwestern's brilliant sprinter, pulled a thigh muscle and had to leave in the semifinals. Golliday will be out of competition the remainder of the indoor season.

Only one conference record was set when Greg Bell of Indiana broad jumped 24 feet, 11 5-8 inches in the prelims, bettering Jewell Dally's 24-7 with Purdue in 1949.

Iowa won three individual wrestling titles and Michigan had two firsts but the Wolverines edged the Hawkeyes in total points, 63-59; at Evanston.

Michigan State and Purdue tied for third place with 40 points each.

Wisconsin's Bob Konovsky won his third straight heavyweight title and Terry McCann of Iowa repeated in the 115 pound class. Mike Rodriguez of Michigan, last year's 147 pound champion, dethroned Illinois' Larry Ten Pas in the 157 pound class.

Ohio State, perennial Big Ten swimming champion, won with ease at Lafayette. The Buckeyes scored 105 points by taking the first four places in three meter diving and winning the 300 yard medley. Closest to OSU was Michigan with 56 points. Iowa finished third with 46 and Indiana, with Bill Woolsey taking three firsts, tallied 45 points.

Illinois, the NCAA gymnastics champion, maintained its Big Ten supremacy by scoring a record 162 1/2 points at Champaign. The Illini total more than doubled second-place Michigan's score of 70 1/2 in spite of the fact they had only one first and shared first in another event.

Illinois took individual titles in two of three fencing events to pile up 43 points and the title. Ohio State, the host school, was second with 33 and Wisconsin finished third with 25.

Cincinnati Woman Leads In Bowling Tournament

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — First place position in the Ohio Women's State Bowling Tournament was held today by Miss Ruth Kemper of Cincinnati, whose 21 strikes in three games gave her a 690 series.

She also equalled the tourney's 30-year-old actual pin record last night. Her 522 series Saturday put the Brunswick Queens into the lead in the actual pin team event with 2,607.

Leading in doubles with 1,124 actual pins are Ruby Whitel and Agnes Knott of Dayton.

Only four berths remained empty today in the sprawling, 25-team NCAA championship basketball tournament, and two of the vacancies may be filled by tonight.

All four spots are reserved for conference champions—the Southeastern, Big Ten, Big Seven and Ohio Valley.

The SEC is putting its entry to a vote. Alabama, already in possession of its first title since 1934, ordinarily would get the berth. But because the Tide's five regulars are four-year men an ineligible under NCAA rules, the SEC members must decide whether to send "Bama's" second team or Kentucky, which wound up second in the conference.

Iowa can collar the Big Ten title and tourney berth by getting past Indiana tonight at Iowa City.

The Big Seven could be decided tomorrow night with a Kansas State victory over Kansas.

Western Kentucky and Tennessee Tech meet in the first phase of a three-way playoff for the Ohio Valley title Wednesday. The winner then meets Morehead Ky. Thursday for the crown.

Five teams gained berths by winning conference crowns over the weekend:

N.C. State swept through the Atlantic Coast Conference tourney as Vic Molodet set a three-game playoff record by scoring 79 points clipping Wake Forest 78-64 in the final.

West Virginia repeated in the Southern, defeating Richmond 58-36 in its tourney finale on Hot Rod Hundley's layup with 43 seconds left.

Dartmouth won its first Ivy crown in 10 years after losing three of its first four league games. The Indians rallied and capped a nine-game winning streak by beating Brown 90-79 in double overtime.

Houston, though idle, won its first Missouri Valley title as Oklahoma A&M eliminated St. Louis 52-49.

UCLA clinched the Pacific Coast title by sweeping California in pair 85-80 and 84-62.

Iowa Can Clinch Big 10 Championship Tonight

By JOE MOOSHLI

Iowa's determined Hawkeyes will be out to clinch their second straight Big Ten basketball title tonight when they take on Indiana. Meanwhile up at Minnesota and Freeman of Ohio State will be shooting for a new conference scoring record.

The Hawkeyes need only to beat Indiana at Iowa City to qualify for the NCAA tournament regardless of what second-place Illinois does.

Iowa took care of that Saturday when it humiliated Illinois, 96-72, in a nationally televised game at Iowa City. The triumph assured the Hawkeyes of at least a tie in the Western Conference.

Illinois, which is at Northwestern tonight, could get a share of the title if the Illini win and Iowa loses to Indiana.

Ohio State is at Minnesota and Michigan State is at Michigan as the conference season comes to an end. Purdue and Wisconsin ended their campaigns Saturday with victories.

Purdue defeated Indiana, 73-71, at Bloomington and Northwestern fell before Wisconsin, 76-70, at Madison.

Robin Freeman poured in 43 points as Ohio State belted Michigan State, 96-84, at Columbus and Minnesota beat Michigan, 86-72, at Ann Arbor.

Freeman has scored 442 points in 13 conference games this season and needs 38 tonight to break Don Schlundt's record of 459 set with Indiana three years ago.

If Freeman, who is averaging 32.4 points per game, can establish a new mark it'll really be an achievement. Schlundt set his record in 1953.

The hospitality committee will meet a half hour earlier, as will also mothers interested in working on the Easter project, Mrs. D. J. Gaughn, chairman.

Professor Says Many Qualify As Faddists

LOS ANGELES, (AP) — If you smoke filtered cigarettes, drive a two-tone car or are mad about Hi-Fi, you qualify as a faddist.

And a faddist, says a man who's made a 42-year study of 'em, is one who "seeks to attract attention of others and attain status."

Dr. Emory S. Bogardus, dean emeritus of the university of Southern California's graduate school and a specialist in sociology, has been making surveys of fads in university classes for 42 years. Some of his gleanings:

About 80 per cent of all fads last less than one year. Those that remain have proved their utility. As fast as fads fade, new ones follow.

Today people are experiencing a revival of some of the fads of 30 or 40 years ago.

Fads that fade fastest are slang expressions. Examples from yesterday: "So's your old man," "Ain't we got fun," "Vas you dere, Charlie?" Current examples: "You can't hardly get them no more," "It's the most to say the least."

Which fads have had sufficient utility to last? Wrist watches, dating from 1916; garterless socks for men, 1924; chiming doorbells, 1931, to name a few.

Man Accused Of Slaying 3 Dies After Fire

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—James M. Leech of Lima is dead. A former Army captain, he was a central figure in the investigation of the still unsolved axe-fire slayings of three fellow officers at Passau, Germany 10 years ago.

Leech died Saturday night of burns he received Feb. 21 in a flash fire at an oil company refinery here where he worked.

The charred bodies of Maj. Everett S. Coffran, formerly of Washington, D. C., Capt. Adria L. Wessler of New Rochelle, N. Y., and 1st Lt. Stanley Rosewater of Omaha, Neb. were recovered Jan. 7, 1946, from a burned villa next to the one Leech occupied on the banks of the Danube River.

Charges were filed against Leech eight years later after he had been honorably discharged from the Army.

Lack of evidence prevented his extradition and the charges were finally dropped last June when the High Commission in Germany went out of existence.

Bart E. Sullivan of Pompano Beach, Fla., former chief of the Army's Criminal Investigation Division during World War II, said later he was convinced Leech was innocent.

Survivors include Leech's widow, Phyllis, and a son Alan, 11.

Police Hunt Gunman Who Shot Physician

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Police today sought an unknown gunman who shot and killed a 65-year-old Dayton physician while he sat watching a television program in his home.

Dead is Dr. James H. Gunn who was struck by bullets fired through a living room window last night. He was wounded in the nose, chest and abdomen as he sat in an easy chair watching the tv set, police said.

Dr. Gunn's wife was lying on a couch in the same room when four bullets crashed through the window. She was uninjured.

Dr. Robert E. Zopf, coroner, ruled the death a homicide. Officer said no clues were readily apparent.

Power Firm Projects Get Tax Assistance

WASHINGTON (AP)—Projects of the Ohio Power Co. in West Virginia and Ohio totaling $30,792,300 qualified yesterday for federal tax assistance, the Office of Defense Mobilization (ODM) announced.

The Canton, Ohio company was authorized to write off 65 per cent of the total in five years in depreciation for tax purposes.

The ODM also approved an 85 per cent write off for tax purposes of about 19 million dollars worth of railroad cars purchased by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

Both companies had submitted applications for tax relief before Dec. 31, the date the ODM stopped accepting requests for tax benefits for power and railroad expansion.

Interesting lessons in advertising for all newspaper readers.

Even though ornithologists tell us that this fellow is just about the least intelligent of all birds, he somehow has acquired a reputation as "the wise old owl".

Maybe some people mistake his sleepy silence for wisdom. Granted, there are times when it is smart to keep quiet, but few successful people ever got that way by "hiding their light in a basket".

It is especially unwise to maintain a lonely silence when it costs so little to tell so many people about your offering through a News Classified Ad.

Housewives and business men alike find the Classified Ads invaluable, whether they are selling unneeded household goods, merchandise or services. For complete information about low cost Want Ads, call ED 2-4601.
